

Instek Digital/Cardax Security Solution Wins Prestigious Security Excellence Award

Tuesday, December 8th, 2009

Instek Digital, the top provider of enterprise standard total security solutions, and Cardax, leading manufacturer of access control systems, have been awarded the prestigious 'Integrated Security Solution of the Year' at the 2009 Security Excellence Awards in London, England.

Judges described the integrated security solution implemented by 2020 Vision at the Bede Academy as an "Impressive demonstration of technology integration on a large scale". The award came as it was revealed how the technology had turned the troubled school's fortune around and led to an oversubscription of places.

Adding to the honors, system integrator partner 2020 Vision was nominated as a finalist in the "Small to Medium Security Installer of the Year" category after the successful implementation of an Instek Digital security solution at the Royal Victoria Infirmary in Newcastle upon Tyne.

The awards come as no surprise to Instek Digital, who constantly endeavor to provide its customers with only the best in total security solutions. From hybrid DVRs and megapixel resolution to point of sales and access control sub-systems, Instek Digital keeps its customers at the forefront of surveillance technology.
